REPORT OF MONITORING OFFICER

Revised Model Code of Conduct for Local Authority Members

The government published at the end of January 2007 a consultation paper, seeking views on their draft revised Model Code of Conduct for local authority members. Responses are requested by no later than Friday 9 March 2007. The intention of the amendments are to make the code more effective and proportionate, with a move towards a more locally based, decision making regime, for the investigation and determination of all but the most serious of misconduct allegations. The role of the Standards Board for England in future, will be at the centre of the revised regime, with a new strategic, regulatory role, to ensure consistency of standards.

I attach as Appendix A, a copy of the consultation paper containing a draft of the statutory instrument which amends the Code of Conduct.

The Local Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) Order 2007

Paragraph 1 – this provides that the order applies to all relevant authorities.

There are currently four Model Codes of Conduct applying to principal councils, parish councils, national parks and broads authorities and police authorities. The intention of the amendment is to combine the four individual codes into one consolidated code.

Representations – no adverse comments have been made on the proposal

Paragraph 2 – this sets out the provisions in the amended Code of Conduct which are not mandatory in certain circumstances.

The exceptions are minor and do not affect the City Council. There are certain exemptions for parish councils but these are non-controversial and simply reflect the fact that parish councils do not operate executive arrangements.

Again none of the commentators I have seen have taken exception to this provision.

Paragraph 3 – deals with revocation of the current secondary legislation in relation to model codes of conduct providing that existing orders continue to have effect in relation to allegations of a breach made before the date the new code is adopted.

One commentator has said that this provision is manifestly unfair. Conduct which takes place at a time when the old code was in force may fall to be judged under the new code if the allegation of breach is not made until the new code is in force.

Members may wish to make a similar representation to the Department for Communities and Local Government.

Schedule to the Order

Definitions – the Order defines “meeting” “member” “Monitoring Officer” and “Standards Committee”.

One commentator has suggested that the definition of “meeting” needs to be expanded to ensure that it applies to informal meetings such as briefings and meetings with officers of an authority, making the point that it is just as important that members declare personal interests and withdraw from prejudicial interests in those informal meetings as it is for formal ones.

The same commentator has also made the observation that there are a number of new phrases in the Code of Conduct which require defining such as “close personal association” “family” “lobbying organisation” “of a financial nature” “philanthropic organisation” “relates to” “representative”. I will pick up these comments under the relevant paragraphs of the code.

Paragraph 1 – this provides that the code applies whenever a member is acting in an official capacity and that it does not apply in other circumstances unless this is specifically indicated. Where a member is acting as a representative of his/her authority, he/she must continue to observe that authority’s code unless subject to another authority’s code or unless there is a conflict with any other legal obligation.

Exception has been taken to the word “observe” and it has been suggested that instead the requirement should be to comply with the code rather than simply “recognise” it. The same commentator makes the point that this paragraph should be extended to cover instances where a member “purports to conduct the business of the authority”, making the point that the public do not know the exact powers of members so will not necessarily know when a member is actual acting on behalf of the authority. The view is taken that if a member is claiming to be acting as a councillor even if outside his/her actual powers, he/she should be covered by the requirements of the code.

Because “representative” is not defined it is unclear whether a member can only represent an authority if appointed or nominated to an outside body. It is suggested that in order to be a representative of an authority, the authority must be able to direct the councillor to act in the interests of the authority or to withdraw the appointment and secure a replacement.

Members may wish to comment that a representative should be defined as a member who is appointed or nominated by the authority, on the basis that he/she shall act in that capacity in the best interests of the authority. Members may also wish to consider commenting that the code should specify a member is not to be treated as acting in an official capacity in relation to a person if that person has been informed that the councillor does not intend to regard himself/herself as acting in an official capacity and it is reasonable in the circumstances to do so.

Paragraph 2 - this provides that members must treat others with respect and not do anything which compromises the impartiality of those who work for the authority or bully anyone or intimidate persons involved in Code of Conduct cases.

The government has accepted the view of the Standards Board for England that a specific definition of bullying does not need to be included in the Code of Conduct and that this should be left to guidance from the Standards Board. That guidance is expected to cover patterns of behaviour as well as individual incidents.

The amended code as drafted refers to action which seriously prejudices the ability to comply with statutory equality duties. A number of commentators have suggested that the word seriously should be deleted as it is not clear at what point prejudice becomes serious prejudice.

Critical comment has also been made about the lack of definition of what constitutes bullying. At the moment the only available definition is the ACAS definition which requires a course of conduct rather than one single incident and requires that conduct should be intended to denigrate or demean the victim. The comment has been made that much bullying is about the bully's the failure to recognise the victim, rather than any malicious intention. It remains to be seen whether this will be covered by Standards Board guidance.

Members may wish to make comments on this issue, in response to the consultation paper.

Paragraph 3 – this paragraph provides that members must not without consent disclose confidential information they have acquired and must not prevent others from gaining access to information to which they are entitled.

An adjudication panel decision in 2005 confirmed that the existing Code of Conduct fails properly to take into account Article 10(i) of the European Convention on Human Rights and said that, in order to be compatible with the Article, the code should be read to allow for the disclosure of information of a confidential nature when it is in the public interest to do so. The original provision has therefore been amended, to allow a member to make a disclosure of information, given to him/her in confidence or which he/she believes to be of a confidential nature, if this is in the public interest, provided the disclosure is in good faith, reasonable and there is no breach of the reasonable requirements of the authority such as relevant protocols and procedures. The Standards Board is expected to issue guidance which would enable members to know how this provision should be interpreted.

It has been suggested that in the absence of a definition of what amounts to in the public interest, it would be helpful to apply the test which is currently used for freedom of information purposes, perhaps by requiring the councillors to submit a freedom of information request to test the point before making the disclosure, at least in cases where there is no overriding urgency. One criticism of the amendment is that as drafted it does not cover the case of a councillor who discloses confidential information to a third party (perhaps for a legitimate purpose such as seeking legal or political advice) but does not place a similar obligation of confidentiality on the recipient, thus enabling that third party to publish the confidential information without redress. It has been suggested that the revised code should be further amended to ensure that when disclosure is made to a third party this should be on the same terms as to disclosure as applied to the councillor himself/herself. You may therefore wish to make appropriate representations in this regard to the Department of Communities and Local Government.

Paragraph 4 – this provides that in a members official capacity and in other circumstances, a member must not conduct himself/herself, in a manner which could bring his/her authority into disrepute.

The Standards Board recommended that the code be amended so that only conduct which might amount to a criminal offence in the members' private life should be regarded as bringing the office or authority into disrepute. It has been suggested that the use of the word 'conduct' in this paragraph should be changed to mis-conduct which seems a sensible proposal to make. A further criticism of the code has been that it fails to bring the code into line with the common law position on predetermination and apparent bias, both of which can have very serious consequences for an authority.

Paragraph 5 - this provides a member must not in an official capacity or in other circumstances use his/her position improperly to gain an advantage or confer a disadvantage and that when using or authorising the use of the authority's resources, must act in accordance with the authority's requirement and must not permit resources to be used for political purposes. A commentator has suggested that resources should be extended to cover resources over which the authority exercises control or influence and there is some criticism of the fact that it is not clear what political use of resources will be proper and acceptable. The point is made that it will be necessary for the Standards Board to issue some very clear advice on this if the provision is to have any effect. There is also some criticism of whether the local authority code of publicity is still appropriate in its entirety or whether that document is due for review.

Paragraph 6 - provides that in reaching decisions a member must consider advice given by the Chief Finance Officer and the Monitoring Officer and give reasons for any decision. One view is that there is no need to limit this provision to the two statutory officers and for example it would be important to ensure that the development control committee have regard to the advice of the planning officer.

Paragraph 7 – this provides a list of matters which constitute a personal interest/

The provisions have been radically restructured. The intention is to reduce the number of times a personal interest might arise. The proposal means that whereas previously an interest which was shared with other council tax payers, rate payers and inhabitants would not be a personal one, now it will not be a personal interest if it is shared with the majority of the inhabitants of the members' ward. One commentator has suggested that interest shared with the majority of the inhabitants of a members ward should remain a personal interest but should not constitute a prejudicial interest.

Paragraph 8 – provides that a member with a personal interest in a matter must disclose the interest at any meeting at which the matter is considered.

Under the current code there will be a technical breach of the code if a member was not aware of an interest held by a relative. The amended code requires disclosure of interests in respect of a family member, friend or person with a close personal association but this only applies if the member is aware or ought reasonably to be aware of that interest.

There is some criticism of the fact that the code still fails to deal with the issue of an enemy as opposed to a friend making the point that matters affecting an “enemy” may well be a stronger motivating force than friendship, yet the only provision is indirectly through the prohibition on misuse of position to confer a disadvantage. It has also been suggested on behalf of the Association of Council Secretaries and Solicitors that in relation to gifts and hospitality there should be a disclosure to the Monitoring Officer of any gift or hospitality exceeding £25 in value but there should be no need to make an oral disclosure at a meeting of any gift or hospitality which does not exceed £100.

Paragraph 9 – provides that a member with a personal interest also has a prejudicial interest if the interest could be regarded by a member of the public as so significant that it is likely to prejudice his/her judgement of the public interest. The paragraph also provides that in specified circumstances a member may regard himself/herself as not having a prejudicial interest.

Three new items are proposed to be added to the list of interests which are not to be regarded as prejudicial. These are:-

- i) Indemnities. The Standards Board's experience is that sometimes members have felt unable to vote in discussions of indemnities, which might relate to themselves as well as other members of the council
- ii) The setting of the council tax. The governments view is that this interest is too remote to be prejudicial even if members are connected with an organisation which is funded from an operational budget.
- iii) Considering whether or not a member should become a Freeman.

The test of what constitutes a prejudicial interest has not been changed.

A commentator has suggested that definitions of lobbying and philanthropic body are needed. The view has also been expressed that it is wrong to include lobbying bodies in the definition of public service interests because there is nothing to ensure that a lobbying body is in any sense public spirited or campaigning for anything other than the private advantage of members.

The new Paragraph 9(iii) is intended to mitigate the effect of the Richardson v North Yorkshire judgment. The new code would allow a member to attend a meeting, make representations and answer questions before withdrawing from the decision making process.

Paragraph 10 – this provides that a member who was involved in making an executive decision on a matter must not be involved in the Overview and Scrutiny Committees consideration of the matter, except in order to answer questions from the committee.

Paragraph 11 – provides that a member with a prejudicial interest must, unless he has obtained a dispensation, withdraw from any meeting at which the matter is being considered and must not improperly influence decisions in relating to that matter.

One commentator has suggested that the paragraph should be made more specific by saying that a member must withdraw “for the duration of the consideration of the matter” so it is clear a member does not have to withdraw until that particular matter is under discussion and can then return to the meeting for subsequent matters.

Paragraph 12 – provides that a member must notify the Monitoring Officer of the personal interest and any change to those interests. An opportunity has been taken by the revised code to rearrange the position of various provisions within the code and the registration of personal interest paragraphs have been simplified and shortened. The Association of Council Secretaries and Solicitors has suggested that there should be an addition which will require the Monitoring Officer so far as possible to ensure that registers of members interests, gifts and hospitality are kept reasonably updated and freely available to members of the public.

Paragraph 13 – provides that a member may notify the Monitoring Officer of any sensitive information which would create a serious risk of violence or intimidation if it was made available to the public.

The Association of Council Secretaries and Solicitors has added harassment and victimisation to the paragraph. A commentator has suggested that the two paragraphs 12 and 13 are obscured by the fact that notification to the Monitoring Officer is equated with registration and suggest that it would be better if the requirement on a councillor was merely to notify the Monitoring Officer and the obligation was then on the Monitoring Officer to put the information on the register and to make the register available for inspection. It would then be possible for a Monitoring Officer to decide that sensitive information need not be put on the register or need not be made public.

The Consultation Paper asks for views on the issues covered by the document and also for responses to 8 specific questions (see Annex B to Appendix A). Members’ instructions are sought on a response to the Consultation Paper, and to the specific questions raised.

Introduction	4
Commentary on Detailed Amendments Proposed	7
Annex A	19
Annex B	30

Introduction

The Local Government White Paper, Strong and Prosperous Communities, issued in October 2006, set out the Government's proposals to put in place a clearer, simpler and more proportionate model code of conduct, which would include changes to the rules on personal and prejudicial interests.

This announcement followed the Discussion Paper Conduct in English Local Government: The Future, issued by the then Office of the Deputy Prime Minister in December 2005, which set out the Government's response to the recommendations made by the Standards Board for England for amendments to the model code of conduct for local authority members. These recommendations followed extensive consultation by the Board in 2005 on amending the code, which attracted over 1,200 responses. We are grateful to the Board for the effort it put into its review and the detailed recommendations it formulated which have served as the basis of the current consultation.

Our Discussion Paper indicated that we welcomed the recommendations the Board presented. We agreed with the Board that amendments should be made to the code along the lines it proposed, including making the code clearer and more proportionate, but maintaining a rigorous approach to the identification of serious misconduct.

The decision to amend the code so as to make it more effective and proportionate formed part of the Government's wider review of the conduct regime applying to local authorities, which concluded that the regime should be amended along the lines suggested by the Committee on Standards in Public Life, ie that there should be a move to a more locally-based decision-making regime for the investigation and determination of all but the most serious of misconduct allegations, but with the Standards Board at the centre of the revised regime with a new strategic, regulatory role to ensure consistency of standards.

In advance of this current consultation, we consulted a number of key stakeholders informally on the detail of the proposals, as part of the Department's White Paper implementation plan. Our intention has been to inaugurate a new, more transparent and collaborative way of working with local government and other stakeholders. We are very grateful for the comments received from the LGA, ACSeS, SOLACE and ALACE, among others, which have assisted us in the shaping of these proposals.

This paper represents the Government's consultation on the detailed amendments needed to put our undertaking to amend the code of conduct into effect. There are four current model codes of conduct applying to various categories of local authority members. These were issued in 2001 and are as follows:

- The Local Authorities (Model Code of Conduct)(England) Order 2001
- The Parish Councils (Model Code of Conduct) Order 2001

- The National Park and Broads Authorities (Model Code of Conduct)(England) Order 2001
- The Police Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) Order 2001.

We propose to combine the current four individual codes referred to above into one consolidated code. A revised draft model code to put this into effect is enclosed at Annex A to this consultation paper. In consequence of providing a consolidated code, we have disappplied certain provisions in respect of particular types of authorities. The consultation paper provides an explanatory commentary on the proposed amendments set out in the revised draft code, and invites the views of consultees on the detailed proposals. We would welcome comments on the proposed model code, including in relation to the questions we have specifically identified in the paper. These are also listed separately at Annex B.

Commentary on Detailed Amendments Proposed

(THE BRACKETED REFERENCES TO PARAGRAPH NUMBERS CORRESPOND TO THE RELEVANT PARAGRAPHS OF THE DRAFT MODEL CODE)

Unlawful discrimination

1. To delete reference to unlawful discrimination (paragraph 2(2)(a))

Paragraph 2(a) of the model code currently provides that a member must promote equality by not discriminating unlawfully against any person. However, an Adjudication Panel finding in January 2005 concluded that the Panel has no jurisdiction to make findings of unlawful discrimination. We need therefore to ensure that unlawful discrimination is not an issue on which a Panel may be required to make a determination, so the provisions in current paragraph 2(a) will be deleted.

We propose to replace paragraph 2(a) with a provision proscribing members from doing anything that would seriously prejudice their authority's statutory duties in regard to equality. We are also retaining the provision in the current rules requiring members to treat others with respect. These provisions should allow the code to continue to support the principles of fair treatment and respect for others, including behaviour and actions which could relate to equality issues.

Bullying

2. Add a provision specifically proscribing bullying (paragraph 2(2)(b))

Currently, paragraph 2(b) of the model code states that a member must treat others with respect. Paragraph 4 of the current code provides that a member must not bring his or her office or authority into disrepute. The code makes no specific reference, however, to bullying behaviour.

We propose to add a specific provision to indicate that members must not bully any person, ie that bullying of other members, officers or anyone else is a breach of the code of conduct. We wish to ensure that it is clear that bullying behaviour should play no part in members' conduct.

We have accepted the Standards Board's view that a specific definition of bullying does not need to be included in the code, and that this should be left to guidance by the Board, which will indicate, for example, the view we take that bullying can relate not only to patterns of behaviour, but also to individual incidents.

Disclosure of confidential information

3. To allow members to disclose confidential information where such disclosure is in the public interest (paragraph 3(a)(iii))

Paragraph 3(a) of the code currently provides that a member should not disclose information given to him or her in confidence or which the member believes to be of a confidential nature. There is no explicit provision allowing members to disclose information if this is in the public interest.

An Adjudication Panel decision in 2005 confirmed, as a matter of law, that paragraph 3(a) of the code of conduct fails properly to take into account Article 10(1) of the European Convention on Human Rights. The Panel found that in order to be compatible with Article 10(1), the code should be read so as to allow for the disclosure of information of a confidential nature where it is in the public interest to do so.

We therefore wish to provide that a member may make a disclosure of information given to him or her in confidence or which he or she believes to be of a confidential nature in the public interest provided the disclosure is in good faith and reasonable, and that the member has not breached any reasonable requirements of the authority, eg in the form of relevant local protocols or procedures. We propose that the Standards Board would issue guidance on how they would expect members to interpret this. We expect that such guidance would indicate that members should be able to disclose information in the following circumstances: where they reasonably believe that the disclosure will indicate evidence of a criminal offence, where the authority is failing to comply with its legal obligations, that a miscarriage of justice has occurred or may occur, that the health and safety of anyone has been endangered, or that the environment has been damaged.

We appreciate that it is important that the public interest test does not allow members to use the defence of public interest when merely seeking to make political capital through disclosure of properly confidential information. Our aim is to strike a sensible balance which is workable in practice between the need to treat certain information confidentially and to allow the disclosure of information in appropriate circumstances.

There may be scope for the provision on confidential information to be clarified further, so as to make clear that the rules on the disclosure of information cover information received by a member in his official capacity or which relates to the work of the council. This would ensure that a member would not be able to claim that although he did disclose information, he did not receive the information in his capacity as a member, which the current drafting might potentially allow him to claim.

Q1. Does the proposed text on the disclosure of confidential information strike an appropriate balance between the need to treat certain information as confidential, but to allow some information to be made public in defined circumstances when to do so would be in the public interest?

Behaviour outside official duties

4. Paragraphs 4 and 5

Paragraph 4 of the current code provides that a member must not in his or her official capacity or any other circumstance conduct himself or herself in a manner which could reasonably be regarded as bringing his or her office or authority into disrepute. In addition, paragraph 5 currently provides that a member must not in his or her official capacity or any other circumstance use his or her position as a member improperly to secure for himself or herself or any other person an advantage or disadvantage.

The Standards Board has recommended amending the code so that, in terms of a member's behaviour in private life, conduct which amounts to a criminal offence, as well as behaviour which would be regarded as criminal but for which a conviction has not been secured, could be regarded as bringing the member's office or authority into disrepute under the terms of the code.

Separately the decision by the High Court in the case of the appeal of the Mayor of London, in October 2006, cast some doubt on the ability of the code of conduct to proscribe behaviour of members in their private capacity. The judgement commented on the interpretation of section 52 of the Local Government Act 2000. This section imposes a duty on a council member to give an undertaking to observe the code of conduct 'in performing his functions'. The Court considered that section 52 limits the scope of the code so that conduct in a member's private capacity can only come within the scope of the code where it is established that there is a direct link with the member's office, eg if the member uses his office for personal gain.

The Court judgement gave examples of cases where it did not think that the code was able to apply. These included where a member shoplifts or is guilty of drunken driving. Such action will not now be caught by the code if the offending conduct had nothing specifically to do with the member's position as a councillor.

This is a narrower interpretation than we have previously applied to the code. Up to now we have assumed it was possible to take a wider view of what private conduct could be relevant, ie including actions not necessarily to do with the member's position as a councillor but which may affect the member's reputation and electors' confidence in him or her.

In response to this case, we have decided to amend sections 49 to 52 of the Local Government Act 2000 so that behaviour in a private capacity might be included within the remit of a code of conduct. This amendment is included in the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Bill currently before Parliament.

If the amendments are enacted, Ministers are currently minded to provide that only private behaviour for which the member has been convicted by a court should be proscribed by the code of conduct, as referred to in paragraph 4(2), and not behaviour falling short of a criminal offence.

Q2. Subject to powers being available to us to refer in the code to actions by members in their private capacity beyond actions which are directly relevant to the office of the member, is the proposed text which limits the proscription of activities in members' private capacity to those activities which have already been found to be unlawful by the courts, appropriate?

Commission of criminal offence before taking office

5. Paragraph 4(2)

We agree with the Standards Board that in the circumstances where a member's behaviour has been found to be unlawful by a court, then the member may be perceived to have brought his or her office or authority into disrepute. We also consider that where a member committed the offence before taking office as a member but where he or she was not convicted until after becoming a member, then this offence should be capable of being taken into account when considering whether the member has brought his or her authority into disrepute. A new paragraph 4(2) implements this amendment.

Using or seeking to use improper influence

6. To amend paragraph 5(a) by adding 'or attempt to use'

Paragraph 5(a) currently provides that a member must not in his or her official capacity or any other circumstance use his or her position as a member improperly to confer on or secure for himself or herself or any other person an advantage or disadvantage. A literal interpretation of this provision might mean that it does not cover unsuccessful attempts by the member to use his or her position in this way. We believe that justice would be better served if provision was made for the code to proscribe members' attempts to use their position even where such attempts were not in the event successful. To this end, we have proposed that the paragraph should provide that the member should not either use or attempt to use his or her position to confer an advantage or disadvantage for himself or herself or anyone else.

7. Paragraph 5(b)(ii)

We have sought to simplify this sub-paragraph without losing any of the intended meaning of the original provision, and specific reference is added to clarify the intention that an authority's resources should not be used improperly for party political purposes.

Publicity code

8. To add reference at paragraph 5 to the need for the member to have regard to the guidance set out in the Government's local authority publicity code

We believe it would be a sensible complement to the code to make it clear that, in addition to providing in paragraph 5 that members should not use resources improperly for political purposes, they should also have regard to the Government's Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity.

The Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity (a copy of which can be found at <http://www.communities.gov.uk/index.asp?id=1133867>) is issued by the Government under the Local Government Act 1986 and was last amended in 2001. The Publicity Code provides instructions about the content, style and distribution of promotional activity and material produced by authorities, supplementing the basic requirement in the 1986 Act that authorities must not use their resources for political purposes.

It has been suggested by some that the Code of Practice on Local Authority Publicity is unnecessary and restrictive. We would be grateful to hear the views of consultees on the Publicity Code and whether or not they feel it is serving a useful purpose. If people feel it should be abolished, do they think it should be replaced by any other guidance, eg issued by local authority representative bodies?

The Publicity Code does not currently apply to the Greater London Authority, fire and rescue authorities and the national parks authorities, although the code of conduct does apply to these bodies. We would also be grateful therefore for views on whether and how it might be appropriate for the Publicity Code to apply in relation to the above bodies.

Q3. Is the Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity serving a useful purpose? If the Publicity Code is abolished, do consultees think some or all of its provisions should be promulgated in a different way, eg via guidance issued by local government representative bodies, or should authorities be left to make their own decisions in this area without any central guidance? Should authorities not currently subject to the Publicity Code be required to follow it, or should the current position with regard to them be maintained?

Reporting breaches of the code and proscribing intimidation

9. To delete the duty in paragraph 7 of the existing code to report breaches of the code by other members, and add a proscription (at paragraph 2(2)(c)) on the intimidation of complainants and witnesses

Paragraph 7 of the current code provides that a member must, if he or she becomes aware of another member's breach of the code, make an allegation to the Standards Board of that breach.

We wish to delete the requirement to report other members' breaches of the code, which has been perceived by some as encouraging councillors to make trivial allegations.

At the same time, to protect members who do report serious misconduct from victimisation, we propose to add a provision at paragraph 2(2)(c) prohibiting a member from intimidating or attempting to intimidate a complainant or witness, people carrying out the investigation, support staff and others involved in the case, whether or not they are members, officers or members of the public. This would demonstrate to members that victimising complainants or witnesses will rebound on them by making the case against them more serious, since such intimidation would itself count as a breach of the code.

In addition, since it is the Government's policy to increase the proportion of cases to be investigated locally, it is important that officers who are required to handle such cases are free from inappropriate pressures from members.

Gifts and hospitality

10. Paragraphs 7(a)(vi) and 8(3)

Paragraph 17 of the code currently provides that in the case of the receipt of any gift or hospitality over the value of £25, members must notify the monitoring officer of the existence and nature of the gift or hospitality. There is no provision for such information to be made public in the register of members' interests.

We wish to reinforce the principles of accountability and openness of the conduct regime by requiring that information about gifts and hospitality should be included in the register of interests. We propose therefore to provide that the receipt of gifts or hospitality of over £25 in value should be an interest that should be registered as a personal interest. However, to ensure this provision is proportionate, we also propose that the requirement to disclose the personal interest to a meeting would cease after five years following the receipt of the gift or hospitality, although that receipt would remain on the register as a personal interest.

Q4. Does the proposed text with regard to gifts and hospitality adequately combine the need for transparency as well as proportionality in making public information with regard to personal interests?

Body influencing public opinion or policy

11. Paragraph 7(b)(iv)

To clarify the fact that the existing reference to a body whose purposes include the influence of public opinion or policy in which the member may have a personal interest, includes any political party.

Interests of family, friends and those with a close personal association

12. To amend reference in the current code to friends and family by adding reference to any person with whom the member has a close personal association (paragraph 7(c)(i) and elsewhere)

Paragraph 8 of the current code provides that a member must regard himself or herself as having a personal interest in a matter if a decision on it affects to a greater extent than other council tax payers, ratepayers or inhabitants of the authority's area, the well-being or financial position of himself, a relative or a friend. We wish to ensure that the definition of personal interest includes matters affecting a range of personal, business and professional associates, as well as people who would specifically be termed as 'friends'. Reference has therefore been added to any person with whom the member has a close personal association.

13. Definition of family and friends (paragraph 7(c)(i) and elsewhere)

With the inclusion of "close personal association" it is not thought necessary to keep the definitions of 'family' or 'friend' in the code. Guidance by the Standards Board will give assistance to members on these definitions.

Q5. Does the proposed text relating to friends, family and those with a close personal association adequately cover the breadth of relationships which ought to be covered, to identify the most likely people who might benefit from decisions made by a member, including family, friends, business associates and personal acquaintances?

Definition of personal interests

14. To replace reference in paragraph 8 to the inhabitants of an authority's area with provision that members should not be required to register an interest in a matter unless the interest is greater than that of the majority of the inhabitants of the ward affected by the matter. For parish councils the definition would apply in respect of the council's whole area (paragraph 7(c)).

Paragraph 8 of the current code provides that members have a personal interest if they would be affected by a matter to a greater extent than other council tax payers, rate payers or inhabitants of the authority's area.

We wish the code to allow members to be able more frequently to take part in council meetings which their communities expect them to participate in or on issues, in some cases, which they have even been elected specifically to address. We therefore wish to delete the current requirement that a personal interest arises where a decision on it might be regarded as affecting the member to a greater extent than other inhabitants of the authority's area, and replace it with a requirement that the personal interest arises only where the interest might reasonably be regarded as affecting the member to a greater extent than the majority of other council tax payers, ratepayers or inhabitants of the ward which is affected by the particular matter. The purpose is to reduce the number of times a personal interest may arise on matters which are not of genuine concern to the public, as a result of the broad current test relating to the whole council's area, which in effect has meant in some cases that members have felt they have to declare interests which are in fact shared with a large number of people.

Narrowing the definition will provide a more locally-based focus, and reduce the number of personal interests which arise by requiring that an interest would arise only where the interest would be higher than most people in the local area affected by the matter. This should mean that an interest would not arise where interests are shared by a substantial number of inhabitants in the authority's area.

Where members, eg elected mayors and co-opted members, do not represent wards, the relevant test would be whether the issue affected the member more than the majority of people in the ward affected by the particular matter.

In the case of parish councils, which do not usually have wards, their areas are so small that we propose to apply the definition in respect of the council's whole area.

Disclosure of personal interests

Under the current code, a member would technically be in breach of the code's provisions in respect of the personal interests of a relative even if he or she was unaware of any interest held by a relative. It would be sensible and more proportionate to amend the provision so that the rules on the disclosure of interests at a meeting in respect of a family member, friend or a person with a close personal association will only apply if the member is aware or ought reasonably to be aware of the interest held by that person.

Public service interests

16. To create a new category of 'public service interest', which arises where a member is also a member of another public body, and for the public service interest only to be declared at meetings where the member speaks on the relevant issue (paragraph 8(2) and 8(7))

Paragraph 9 of the current code provides that a member with a personal interest must disclose the interest at the commencement of the meeting or when the interest becomes apparent.

We wish to provide a definition of what is meant by 'public service interest', ie an interest which arises where a member is also a member of another public body, to which they have been appointed or nominated by the authority, or of which they are a member in their own right. Members would be required, as now, to enter any such interest they have in the register of interests.

However, instead of, as now, requiring that public service interests are declared at the start of any relevant business, we wish to require that such interests should only be declared at such time as the member speaks on a relevant issue. The aim of this is to avoid the current onerous requirement by which lengthy periods at the start of business on a particular issue can be spent by members in declaring their personal interests in the particular issue, even if many or all of those members have no intention to take part in the debate on that subject.

Prejudicial interests – List of exemptions

17. To simplify and amend the list of exemptions where members should not regard themselves as having a prejudicial interest (paragraph 9(2)(b))

Three new items have been added to the list of interests which are not to be regarded as prejudicial. This will mean that a member will not have a prejudicial interest where the matter relates to the authority's functions in respect of:

- Indemnities. This addition arises from the Standards Board's experience of cases where, for example, members have felt unable to vote in discussions on the issue by the authority of indemnities which might relate to themselves, as well as a number of other members of the council.
- The setting of council tax. We understand that some members have been concerned that in discussing this issue, prejudicial interests may arise for them because of their connection with an organisation funded from an operational budget which is being set by the council tax settlement. We consider that such an interest is likely to be too remote to be a prejudicial interest.
- Considering whether or not the member should become a freeman of the authority.

We also propose to amend the Local Authorities (Code of Conduct) (Local Determination) Regulations to allow a member to attend a hearing of a standards committee into his or her conduct in order to be able to defend himself or herself.

Q6. Would it be appropriate for new exceptions to be included in the text as additions to the list of items which are not to be regarded as prejudicial?

Overview and scrutiny committees

18. To provide that members are excluded from overview and scrutiny committees where they are scrutinising decisions, including decisions made by the authority's executive, which they were involved in making (paragraph 10)

Paragraph 11 of the current code does not allow a member to scrutinise a decision of a committee, sub-committee or joint committee 'of which he may also be a member'. It does not cover the position of a member who may not now be a member of the relevant committee but was a member at the time the decision was taken. We therefore wish to make an amendment to ensure that the proscription will apply where the councillor was a member at the time of the decision or action.

All members with a prejudicial interest, regardless of the category of interest, would still continue to be subject to paragraph 11(1)(c), ie the requirement that members should not seek improperly to influence a decision about the matter.

Q7. Is the proposed text, relaxing the rules to allow increased representation at meetings, including where members attend to make representations, answer questions or give evidence, appropriate?

Sensitive Information

20. To provide for sensitive information in respect of private interests not to be included on the register of interests where revealing it is likely to lead to the member or those he or she lives with being subject to violence or intimidation (paragraphs 8(5) and 13)

Paragraph 14 of the current code requires members to register all of their personal interests.

We wish to ensure that sensitive information, for example, where members are employed in areas of sensitive employment, such as certain types of scientific research, need not be made public if to do so would threaten the safety of the member and/or his family. A member who considers that the information which he or she would need to register is sensitive, will apply to the authority's monitoring officer for the interest not to be registered. If the monitoring officer is satisfied that the information is sensitive and the risk of intimidation of the member or those he or she lives with is real, the member may not include the sensitive information on the register of interests.

Consistent with the above, we also wish to amend paragraph 8(5), so that a member with an accepted sensitive interest should not have to disclose publicly the details of that sensitive information at a council meeting, although he or she will still need to disclose that they have a personal interest if this is the case in respect of a particular matter under discussion.

National Park and Boards Authorities – prejudicial interest

21. Delete sub-paragraphs (f) and (g) from paragraph 10(2) of the current National Park and Broads Authorities (Model Code of Conduct)(England) Order 2001

A further consequence of the current paragraph 11 provision is that a member is not allowed to scrutinise decisions where he or she is a member of the committee whose decision is being scrutinised, ie the proscription applies where he or she was not involved in making the decision, for example, because he or she was absent from the committee or where he or she became a member after the decision was taken. This can have the effect of debarring members from the scrutiny function in respect of decisions in which they had no involvement. We therefore propose an amendment to provide that members should only be debarred from involvement in the scrutiny function in cases where they are scrutinising decisions they were involved in making.

In addition, the rules do not currently refer to decisions made or action taken by the authority's executive. They therefore do not cover the case where a former member of the executive sits on a scrutiny committee to scrutinise decisions of the executive to which he or she contributed. We propose therefore that paragraph 10 is amended to indicate that the restriction will apply to former executive members who were involved in making the relevant decisions.

Participation in relation to prejudicial interests

19. To provide a clearer prejudicial interest test to apply for public service interests and where members attend to make representations (paragraphs 9 and 11)

Actions which a member should take where he or she has a prejudicial interest are set out in current paragraph 12.

We wish to provide for clearer and more proportionate rules to apply in respect of participation in council meetings for those who have public sector interests, ie who are members of another authority or a charity or lobbying body, and for those who are attending meetings to make representations.

We consider that the fact that an issue considered by one body may affect another body with which the member is involved does not necessarily mean that the member's judgement of the public interest will be prejudiced. In such cases, the public service interest should only be considered prejudicial where

- (a) the matter relates to the financial affairs of the body concerned, or
- (b) where the matter relates to the determining of any approval, consent, licence or permission (eg in respect of planning and licensing) in relation to the body.

Where a member has a public service interest and (a) or (b) do not apply, then no prejudicial interest would arise and the member may speak and vote at the meeting.

Any member (including a member with a public service interest to which (a) or (b) also apply), will not have a prejudicial interest where they attend a meeting to make representations, answer questions or give evidence, provided the committee agrees that the member may do so. After members have answered such questions or given such evidence, they must then withdraw from the room where the meeting is being held.

Paragraph 10(2)(f) and (g) of the current model code applying to the National Park and Broads Authorities makes provision in respect of matters for which a member may regard himself as not having a prejudicial interest. At the request of DEFRA, and following earlier consultation by them with the National Parks and Broads Authorities, we wish to delete provisions allowing interest in respect of matters relating to farming, land, certain charges or navigation not to be regarded as prejudicial interests for members in certain cases. This is to address criticism that these clauses have led to preferential treatment for some landowners and navigators, who, if it was not for the operation of the paragraph, would have been regarded as having a prejudicial interest.

Register of members' interests

Opportunity has been taken to rearrange the position of various provisions within the code. Because the list of potential personal interests is now in paragraph 7, the paragraphs on the registration of personal interests have been simplified and shortened.

Gender neutrality of language

23. To amend the code throughout to ensure gender neutrality of language

To signal the fact that the principles of the code refer both to women as well as men, and promote a more inclusive approach, we propose to make the language of the code gender neutral and replace gender-specific language such as 'he', or 'him', with 'he or she', or 'him or her'.

Q8. Is there a better, more user-friendly way of ensuring the text is gender neutral, for example, would consultees consider that amending the wording to say 'you' instead of 'he or she' or 'him or her' would result in a clearer and more accessible code for members?

- (cc) in all other cases, other council tax payers, ratepayers or inhabitants of the authority's area.

Disclosure of personal interests

8.—(1) Subject to sub-paragraphs (2) to (7), a member with a personal interest in a matter who attends a meeting of the authority at which the matter is considered must disclose to that meeting the existence and nature of that interest at the commencement of that consideration, or when the interest becomes apparent.

(2) A member with a personal interest in a matter which is a public service interest, need only disclose to that meeting the existence and nature of that interest when he or she addresses the meeting on that matter.

(3) A member with a personal interest of the type mentioned in paragraph 7(a)(vi) need not disclose the nature or existence of that interest to the meeting if the interest was registered more than five years before the date of the meeting.

(4) In relation to a personal interest of a family member, a friend, or any person with whom the member has a close personal association, sub-paragraph (1) only applies where the member is aware or ought reasonably to be aware of the interest.

(5) Where, by virtue of paragraph 13, sensitive information relating to a member is not registered in the authority's register of members' interests (maintained under section 81(1) of the Local Government Act 2000), a member with a personal interest must indicate to the meeting that he or she has a personal interest, but need not disclose the sensitive information to that meeting.

(6) Subject to paragraph 11(1)(b), a member with a personal interest in any matter who has made an executive decision in relation to that matter must ensure that any written statement of that decision records the existence and nature of that interest.

(7) In this paragraph—

- (a) a member has a public service interest in a matter where that matter relates to—
 - (i) another relevant authority of which he or she is a member;
 - (ii) another public authority in which he or she holds a position of general control or management; or
 - (iii) a body to which he or she is appointed or nominated by the authority; and
- (b) "executive decision" is to be construed in accordance with any regulations made by the Secretary of State under section 22 of the Local Government Act 2000.

Prejudicial interests

9.—(1) Subject to sub-paragraphs (2) and (3), a member with a personal interest in a matter also has a prejudicial interest in that matter where the interest is one which a member of the public with knowledge of the relevant facts would reasonably regard as so significant that it is likely to prejudice the member's judgement of the public interest.

(2) A member does not have a prejudicial interest in a matter where—

- (a) he or she has a public service interest in the matter, unless—
 - (i) the matter relates to the financial affairs of the body to which that public service interest relates; or

- (ii) the matter relates to the determining of any approval, consent, licence, permission or registration in relation to that body;
- (b) that matter relates to the functions of the authority in respect of—
 - (i) housing, where he or she is a tenant of the authority provided that those functions do not relate particularly to the member's tenancy or lease;
 - (ii) school meals, transport and travelling expenses, where the member is a guardian or parent of a child in full time education, or is a parent governor of a school, unless it relates particularly to the school which the child attends;
 - (iii) statutory sick pay under Part XI of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992, where the member is in receipt of, or is entitled to the receipt of such pay from a relevant authority;

 - (ii) his or her election or appointment to office (where that is later),

Sensitive information

- 13.—(1) Where a member considers that the availability for inspection by the public of information relating to any personal interest which, but for this paragraph, must be registered in the authority's register of members' interests creates, or is likely to create, a serious risk that the member or a person who lives with him or her may be subjected to violence or intimidation (in this Code "sensitive information"), the member may, where the monitoring officer considers it appropriate, not include that sensitive information on the register of members' interests.
- (2) A member must, within 28 days of becoming aware of any change of circumstances which leads him or her to believe that information excluded from the authority's register of members' interests is no longer sensitive information, notify the authority's monitoring officer of this fact and register the information concerned in the authority's register of members' interests.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

The Order contains a model code of conduct as regards the conduct which is expected of members and co-opted members of relevant authorities in England and police authorities in England and Wales. Under section 51 of the Local Government Act 2000, each authority must adopt a code of conduct applying to its members and co-opted members which must incorporate any mandatory provisions of the model code. Under section 51(5) of that Act, where an authority does not adopt such a code within six months of the Order coming into force, the mandatory provisions of the model code will apply to the members of the authority until it does.

Article 1 provides that this Order applies to relevant authorities in England and police authorities in England and Wales.

Article 2 provides that a model code is set out in the Schedule to the Order, and states which of its provisions are mandatory.

Article 3 revokes—

the Local Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) (England) Order 2001(a);

the Parish Councils (Model Code of Conduct) Order 2001(b);

the National Park and Broads Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) (England) Order 2001(c); the Police Authorities (Model Code of Conduct) Order 2001(d).

These Orders continue to have effect in relation to allegations made before the date when the new code is adopted or applied to an authority.

The disapplication of certain enactments made by these Orders continues to have effect.

In the Schedule to the Order—

Paragraph 1 of the model code provides that the code applies whenever a member is acting in his or her official capacity, and that it does not apply in other circumstances unless otherwise indicated. Additionally, where a member is acting as a representative of his or her authority, he or she must continue to observe the authority's code, unless he or she is subject to another relevant authority's code, or unless (in relation to any other body) it conflicts with any other legal obligations.

Paragraph 2 provides that members must treat others with respect and not do anything which compromises the impartiality of those who work for the authority or bully anyone or intimidate persons involved in code of conduct cases.

Paragraph 3 provides that members must not without consent disclose confidential information they have acquired and must not prevent others from gaining access to information to which they are entitled.

Paragraph 4 provides that in a member's official capacity and in other circumstances, a member must not conduct himself or herself in a manner which could bring his or her authority into disrepute.

Paragraph 5 provides that a member must not in his or her official capacity or in other circumstances use his or her position improperly to gain an advantage or confer a disadvantage and that when using or authorising the use of the authority's resources, he or she must act in accordance with the authority's requirements and must not permit those resources to be used for political purposes.

Paragraph 6 provides that in reaching decisions a member must consider advice given by the chief finance officer and monitoring officer and must give reasons for decisions made.

Paragraph 7 provides a list of matters which constitute a personal interest in a matter.

Paragraph 8 provides that a member with a personal interest in a matter must disclose that interest at any meeting at which the matter is considered.

(a) S.I. 2001/3575.
(b) S.I. 2001/3576.
(c) S.I. 2001/3577.
(d) S.I. 2001/3578.

Paragraph 9 provides that a member with a personal interest also has a prejudicial interest if the interest could be regarded by a member of the public as so significant that it is likely to prejudice his judgement of the public interest. The paragraph provides that in the circumstances specified a member may regard himself as not having a prejudicial interest.

Paragraph 10 provides that a member who was involved in making an executive decision on a matter must not be involved in the overview and scrutiny committee's consideration of that matter, except in order to answer questions from that committee.

Paragraph 11 provides that a member with a prejudicial interest must, unless he has obtained a dispensation, withdraw from any meetings at which the matter is being considered, and must not improperly influence decisions in relation to the matter.

Paragraph 12 provides that a member must notify the monitoring officer of the personal interests and any change to those interests must also be notified.

Paragraph 13 provides that a member may notify the monitoring of any sensitive information the availability of which to the public creates, or is likely to create, a serious risk that the member or a person who lives with him or her may be subjected to violence or intimidation.

Your views

We would welcome your views on the issues covered by this consultation paper and any other comments and suggestions you may have.

Questions

The specific questions which feature throughout the text of this paper are reproduced for ease of reference:

Q1. Does the proposed text on the disclosure of confidential information strike an appropriate balance between the need to treat certain information as confidential, but to allow some information to be made public in defined circumstances when to do so would be in the public interest?

Q2. Subject to powers being available to us to refer in the code to actions by members in their private capacity beyond actions which are directly relevant to the office of the member, is the proposed text which limits the proscription of activities in a member's private capacity to those activities which have already been found to be unlawful by the courts, appropriate?

Q3. Is the Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity serving a useful purpose? If the Publicity Code is abolished, do consultees think some or all of its provisions should be promulgated in a different way, eg via guidance issued by local government representative bodies, or should authorities be left to make their own decisions in this area without any central guidance? Should authorities not currently subject to the Publicity Code be required to follow it, or should the current position with regard to them be maintained?

Q4. Does the proposed text with regard to gifts and hospitality adequately combine the need for transparency as well as proportionality in making public information with regard to personal interests?

Q5. Does the proposed text relating to friends, family and those with a close personal association adequately cover the breadth of relationships which ought to be covered, to identify the most likely people who might benefit from decisions made by a member, including family, friends, business associates and personal acquaintances?

Q6. Would it be appropriate for new exceptions to be included in the text as additions to the list of items which are not to be regarded as prejudicial?

Q7. Is the proposed text relaxing the rules to allow increased representation at meetings, including where members attend to make representations, answer questions, or give evidence, appropriate?

Q8. Is there a better, more user-friendly way of ensuring the text is gender-neutral, for example, would consultees consider that amending the wording to say 'you' instead of 'he or she' or 'him or her' would result in a clearer and more accessible code for members?
