County Durham Environment Awards

Joint report of Lorraine O'Donnell, Director of Transformation and Partnerships and Ian Thompson, Corporate Director of Regeneration and Local Services

Purpose of the Report

- 1 The purpose of this report is to provide an overview of the current County Durham Environment Awards and the continued strengthening of the community, partner and Member engagement in the delivery of the programme.

Background

- 2 The Environment and Sustainable Communities Overview and Scrutiny Committee in March 2017 received an overview presentation of the development, progress and current processes of the County Durham Environment Awards. In the resulting discussion members of the committee made a number of suggestions to strengthen community, partner and Member engagement. These suggestions were provided to the relevant officers in the Real Service Grouping and arrangements have been made for their attendance at the 8 March meeting with a presentation covering:
 - Aims and objectives
 - Context
 - History of awards
 - Funding
 - Partners
 - Process
 - Ceremony and Winners
 - Further development and strengthening engagement

Environment Awards; Key Features

- 3 The County Durham Environment Awards (referred to as ‘the Awards’) were established in 1989 and initially focussed on the built and natural environment. Their overarching objective is to reward great design, environmental guardianship and community spirit in County Durham. Until Local Government Review they were delivered solely by Durham County Council. Subsequently, responsibility for the strategic development of the Awards has rested with the County Durham Environment Partnership with day to day management provided by DCC staff.
- 4 The remit of the Awards has continued to develop to reflect the changing environmental agenda and align with the corporate direction of the bodies involved. Consequently, issues such as climate change, greener business development and operations, community partnerships and volunteering are now represented.
- 5 As the scope and scale of the Awards has changed, so has the method of funding. Whilst still receiving core funding from DCC, an annual call for sponsorship is now made with a view to at least matching the DCC contribution. This has enabled the overall process to be developed in to a more high profile celebration of the many facets of good environmental practice across County Durham, culminating in a prestigious annual Award winner’s ceremony.
- 6 This is supported by an ongoing media partner arrangement with the Northern Echo group which ensures media coverage at appropriate points to maximise publicity, engagement and involvement.
- 7 As the programme has evolved so have the methods of engagement:
 - a. The Awards have now moved to an online application format.
 - b. Calls for applications are shared by traditional methods and increasingly through the use of social media in order to engage better with certain parts of the community.
 - c. A live social media feed from the presentations at the ceremony is used annually and under the new corporate communications and marketing structure the use of video has been expanded to better share the messages of successful schemes.
- 8 The Awards programme continues to strengthen engagement and now engages with a diverse cross-section of the local community but there may be further engagement opportunities, particularly in the more people-focused categories including community partnership and volunteering. This will ensure that as many deserving groups and individuals as possible are recognised for their achievements in improving the County’s environment.

- 9 The Service Grouping continues to explore further engagement opportunities using such channels as AAP's, community networks and locally elected councillors at all levels, given that they have a close understanding of the scope of environmental work underway in their communities.

Recommendation

- 8 That the Committee note the information contained within the report and presentation and comment accordingly.

Appendix 1: Implications

Finance – The Awards incur an annual cost of up to £10,000 of which DCC cover a maximum of 50% depending on sponsorship levels along with staffing support. The balance comes from external sponsorship and it is anticipated that this commitment shall continue into the future.

Staffing – A cross service team exists to service all elements of the programme

Risk – Funding is dependent on external sponsorship in support of core costs and should this be significantly reduced then continuation of programme in current form will be jeopardised.
